General Information

Registering a cat or dog in NSW

Microchipping

A microchip is a 'subcutaneous full duplex electronic radio transponder'. Modern microchips are about the size of a grain of rice and are implanted beneath the animal's skin between the shoulders. No personal information is stored on the microchip, only the unique identification number.

Microchipping is the most effective way to help ensure your pet can be returned to you if it becomes lost. In NSW, all cats and dogs, other than exempt cats and dogs, must be microchipped by 12 weeks of age or before being sold or given away, whichever happens first. Penalties may apply for failing to microchip your pet.

Only authorised microchip implanters and veterinarians are permitted to microchip pets.

Registration

All cats and dogs, other than exempt cats and dogs, must be registered by six months of age. The registration fee is a once-only payment, which covers the cat or dog for its lifetime in NSW, regardless of any changes in ownership. Penalties may apply for failing to register your cat or dog.

Discounted registration fees apply to cats that are desexed by four months of age and dogs that are desexed by six months of age. Having your cat or dog de-sexed prior to registration helps to reduce straying, fighting and aggression and antisocial behaviour, such as spraying to mark territory. It also helps to reduce the number of unwanted pets born each year.

Registration fees are used by councils to provide animal management related services to the community. These may include ranger services, pound facilities, dog refuse bins, off-leash areas, educational and other companion animal-related activities.

For more information about microchipping and registering cats and dogs in NSW, please visit www.olg.nsw.gov.au
Section 1 – About the NSW Pet Registry

The NSW Pet Registry (Registry) and Companion Animals Register (Register) is a database of microchipped and registered cats and dogs that live in NSW. In accordance with the Companion Animals Act 1998 (CA Act), the Registry has been established as the official online system in NSW for registering your animal. The use of any other website does not constitute a registration in NSW.

The NSW Pet Registry is managed by the Office of Local Government (OLG) and is part of the NSW Government’s commitment to streamlining digital registration processes, strengthening animal welfare standards and promoting responsible pet ownership across the state.

Dog and cat owners can easily create an online profile and connect it to their pet’s microchip record to help ensure they are reunited with their pet if it becomes lost.

The NSW Pet Registry allows dog and cat owners to:

- update your contact details
- change the ownership of pets
- report your pet missing or deceased
- pay most lifetime registration fees

Getting started with the NSW Pet Registry

The NSW Pet Registry is located at www.petregistry.nsw.gov.au

This document offers a step-by-step guide to the major functions of the NSW Pet Registry. If you have further questions, please consult the ‘frequently asked questions’ section at the end of this document or visit www.petregistry.nsw.gov.au

Pet owners who do not have an email address or cannot use the NSW Pet Registry can still complete paper forms at their local NSW council office. People with assistance and working dogs will also need to register their dog in person at their local NSW council office.

Additional note for dog and cat breeders

Section 83M of the CA Act states that the Deputy Secretary may allocate a breeder identification number to any person who is the owner of a companion animal that has a litter. The Breeder Identification Number allows improved use of the NSW Pet Registry for things such as adding multiple animals (litter) and making it easier for authorised implanters to add microchip information to companion animals.

Section 7 - Frequently asked questions

General questions

Who can use the NSW Pet Registry?

The majority of cat and dog owners in NSW can pay their registration fee online using the NSW Pet Registry.

Anyone with access to the NSW Pet Registry can use the Buyer Search function and the Lost and Found function.

Pet owners who do not have an email address or cannot use the NSW Pet Registry can still complete paper forms at their local NSW council office or at a Service NSW customer centre.

If you are a registered breeder seeking the discounted registration fee, you will need to visit your local council and take copies of breeder certificates.

People with assistance and working dogs and pensioners (other than aged pensioners) will also need to register their dog in person at their local NSW council office.

My pet is already microchipped and the lifetime registration fee has been paid, do I have to register again?

No you don’t need to register again after the lifetime registration fee has been paid but you should create a ‘pet owner’ profile on the NSW Pet Registry. You can ‘claim’ your pets, which locks them to your profile by referring to section 3 of this User Guide.

Next, check that your contact details are correct by referring to Section 2 of this User Guide. Up to date details help ensure you and your cat or dog can be reunited should they become lost or injured.

Your registration is complete when you have paid your once-only, lifetime registration fee.

Registering your details – create owner profile

My pet is already microchipped but I have not paid the lifetime registration fee. Do I also have to register it?

Yes. All dogs and cats that need to be registered must have their identification (microchip) and registration (owner details etc.) recorded on the NSW Pet Registry. The lifetime registration fee must be paid by the time the animal is 6 months old.

To do this using the NSW Pet Registry, you need to first create your owner profile (refer to Section 2) and then second, link or connect your pet to your owner profile by “claiming” your pet (refer to Section 3).

What name should I use to register my pet?

You need to use your name as it appears on your Driver’s Licence, Medicare card or Australian passport. You will need one of these documents to verify your identity. Only one person can be listed as the registered owner.

What address should I use to register my pet?

You should use the street address where your pet lives most of the time. You cannot use a PO Box number. There is also an opportunity to enter a separate address for postal purposes or a secondary address where your pet occasionally lives. When entering the address details, you will need to use the ‘search address’ bar to get the official address as recorded with NSW Land Registry Services.

My address does not come up on the NSW Pet Registry, what should I do?

If you are entering a physical address please make sure it is the property address as recorded with NSW Land Registry Services.

For rural properties, this may mean your official Rural Property Address rather than a property name or other name. This is not the same as your lot number. It will include a Rural Road Number, a Road Name and a Locality. If you do not know your Rural Property Address, please contact your local council.

If you are not able to enter a valid address on the online NSW Pet Registry, you will need to complete the relevant paper form and lodge it with your local council. Forms are available from your council, at the bottom of the page on the NSW Pet Registry website or can be accessed under ‘Related Downloads’ at www.olg.nsw.gov.au/pet-ownership

How does Identity Verification work?

The identity of the person making the online profile will be validated through a Document Verification Service (DVS). When you make a user profile your Driver’s Licence, Medicare or Passport Number will be validated against the name and date of birth on these documents. Your Driver’s Licence, Medicare or Passport Numbers are not stored in the NSW Pet Registry or on the DVS.

When I tried to create an account, the password didn’t come through to my email?

Try checking your junk mail or spam folder for the email.

Claiming your pet – linking or connecting a pet to your owner profile

I don’t know my pet’s microchip number. What should I do?

The microchip number should be on your pet’s vaccination, sterilisation certificate or other document provided by your vet.

Contact your vet or local council as they may be able to assist over the telephone in cases where you can provide information that clearly identifies you as the pet’s owner.

You may need to make arrangements to have your pet scanned by a vet or a council ranger. They will be able to provide you with a Verification of Existing Microchip Form containing your pet’s microchip number.

What if I cannot find my pet on the NSW Pet Registry?

There could be a range of reasons why you cannot find your pet on the NSW Pet Registry. In the first instance you should contact your local council for assistance.

If you believe your pet’s microchip number has been incorrectly recorded in the NSW Pet Registry please contact your vet and have your pet scanned. They will be able to look up your pet’s details on the NSW Pet Registry and, if the microchip number is wrong, give you a Verification of Existing Microchip Form to lodge at your local council. This will enable council to correct the information on the Registry, allowing you to claim your pet.

The ‘Claim Pet’ function does not work for me. What should I do?

Your pet’s microchip number and ownership details must correspond with your details in order to match them to your online profile. Specifically, you must match the name and contact number you used when your pet’s record was entered or updated in the NSW Pet Registry.
For example, Mr Mathew Smith is the owner of ‘Jed’ a Labrador cross. As the owner of ‘Jed’ is recorded as Matt Smith on the Registry, Mr Smith will not be able to claim ‘Jed’ to his profile.

If your profile details do not match the name and contact number on the Registry for your pet, you will need to update the Registration by completing an update details form, available at the ‘Forms’ tab at the bottom of the page on the website (or obtained from your local council) and lodge it with your local council.

You will also need to know your pet’s microchip number.

If you are still not able to ‘claim’ your pet please call the NSW Pet Registry Technical Assistance Line on 1300 134 460 between 9:00am – 4:30pm Monday to Friday.

Registration information

What are the lifetime registration fees for pets?

All cats and dogs should be registered by six months of age. Registration fees are valid for the lifetime of each pet and do not need to be renewed each year. A list of current registration fees is available on the Office of Local Government website at https://www.olg.nsw.gov.au/content/registration-fees

Is there a charge for making an online payment?

A small charge of 0.40% is levied for online registration. This covers bank service transaction costs.

How can you tell if a pet’s registration has been paid before you buy it?

All cats and dogs should be microchipped when you buy them, but the lifetime registration fees may not be paid. You can search on the NSW Pet Registry using a microchip number found in the advertisement or ask the seller for the registration certificate.

A registration certificate cannot be obtained until payment has been made. In NSW registration is a once off payment valid for the lifetime of the pet, which transfers between owners.

Transferring your pet to a new owner

What happens if a new owner does not ‘accept’ the pet?

A pet’s details remain visible in the old owner’s profile until the pet is claimed by the new owner. The status of a transferred pet changes from ‘Home’ to Home-Transfer’ until the new owner claims the pet online. Once claimed the pet is removed from the old owner’s profile and locked to the new owner’s profile with status ‘Home’.

You may wish to contact the new owner to remind them to claim their new pet online or contact a local council for assistance. Local councils can change the status of a pet in certain circumstances.

Owners should create profiles so their pets can be returned home if lost stolen or injured (refer to Section 2).

My dog is declared menacing, dangerous, or is a restricted breed. Can I transfer ownership?
No. Selling or giving away a dog that has been declared menacing, dangerous or restricted is prohibited under the Companion Animals Act 1998 and penalties apply. Owners of these dogs should contact their local council for further information.

Updating your pet’s details

How do I update my pet’s record to show it has been de-sexed?

Your veterinarian and NSW councils are able to update the de-sexed status of a cat or dog.

Your local council will require your pet’s microchip number and one of the following documents:

- The sterilisation certificate with the microchip number included on it
- A letter from the vet which includes the V number of the vet and the microchip number
- A statutory declaration
- A receipt for the cost of de-sexing.

It is important to have the de-sexed status of your pet updated on the NSW Pet Registry before you pay your life-time registration fee as discounts apply.

Can I upload a photo of my pet to the NSW Pet Registry?

Yes. Refer to Section 3.3 of this guide for further details.

How do I report my pet as missing or that he/she has passed away?

To report a missing pet online, the owner needs to update the pet’s details using the ‘update’ link on the ‘My Pets’ page. The ‘update’ link can also be used to notify that your pet has passed away. Please refer to section 3.2 of this guide for further details.

Vets can also make these notifications on the NSW Pet Registry on your behalf.

I have been given a kitten/puppy, what do I need to do?

In NSW, all cats and dogs must be microchipped and the registration information entered on the NSW Pet Registry by 12 weeks of age or before being sold or given away, whichever happens first.

You’ll need to know the microchip number to update the pet’s details on the Registry. If you don’t know the number or if it is not microchipped take the puppy or kitten to your vet.

To complete the registration of your pet you will need to update the ownership details and pay the once only lifetime registration fee. The registration fee is required to be paid by the time your pet reaches six months of age.

If your pet is already registered it is important to update the owner and contact details on the Registry. See section 3.1 of this guide for information on how to claim your pet online.

The NSW Pet Registry can be accessed at www.petregistry.nsw.gov.au. If you do not have access to a computer you can register your pet at your local council or ServiceNSW service centre.

Trouble Shooting

Why won’t the NSW Pet Registry work on my computer?

The NSW Pet Registry has been developed to work on internet browsers Chrome, Firefox, Internet Explorer and Safari. However, the NSW Pet Registry website will not work on versions of Internet Explorer and Safari that are no longer supported by Microsoft, meaning you may have to switch browsers.
